HISTORIC SQUARES

James Edward Oglethorpe and 114 colonists arrived at Yamacraw Bluff on the Savannah River on February 12, 1733, to found America's 13th colony. One of the first things Oglethorpe did was design the basic layout for Savannah, making it America's first planned city. The plan established public squares, intended as central areas of fortification, as well as social areas for the colonists. Today's residents and visitors continue to enjoy the beauty of the squares.

Calhoun Square

Named for South Carolina statesman John C. Calhoun, the square was laid out in 1851.
Abercorn St. between Taylor & Gordon Sts.

Chatham Square

Laid out in 1847 and named after William Pitt, the Earl of Chatham.
Barnard St. between Taylor & Gordon Sts.

Chippewa Square

Named to commemorate the 1812 Battle of Chippewa in Canada. The bronze statue of Gen. James Edward Oglethorpe is by Daniel Chester French.
Bull St. between Perry & Hull Sts.

Columbia Square

This was Savannah's eastern limit when the city was walled between 1757 and 1790. A fountain from Wormsloe sits in the center.
Habersham St. between York & State Sts.

Crawford Square

Laid out in the 1840s and named for William Harris Crawford, a former governor and a former U.S. senator.
Houston St. between Hull & Perry Sts.

Elbert Square

The square was created and named in 1801 for Samuel Elbert, a planter and Revolutionary War soldier. Today, only a small portion remains.
Montgomery St. between Hull & Perry Sts.

Ellis Square

Laid out in 1733 and named after Henry Ellis, who became the second royal governor of Georgia in 1758. It is the site of the old city market, which was torn down and replaced by a parking garage in 1954. The square was restored in 2010.
Barnard St. between Bryan & Congress Sts.

Franklin Square

Laid out in 1790 and named for Benjamin Franklin, an American statesman and agent for the Colony of Georgia, 1768-1775.
Montgomery St. between Bryan & Congress Sts.

Greene Square

Named for Revolutionary War Gen. Nathaniel Greene who lived at nearby Mulberry Groves Plantation, which he was given for his service in the Revolutionary War.
Houston St. between York & State Sts.

Johnson Square

The city's first square, named for Robert Johnson, the governor of South Carolina who helped the Georgia Colony. In the center is the monument and grave of Gen. Nathaniel Greene.
Bull St. between Bryan & Congress Sts.

Lafayette Square

Laid out in 1837 and named after the Marquis de Lafayette, who visited Savannah in 1825 and spoke to the crowd from the balcony of the Owens-Thomas House, located on this square.
Abercorn St. between Harris & Charlton Sts.

Liberty Square

Laid out in 1799 and named to honor the "Sons of Liberty," who fought the British during the Revolutionary War. A small portion featuring the Flame of Freedom sculpture remains.
Montgomery St. between State & York Sts.

Madison Square

Named in honor of James Madison, the fourth U.S. president, and laid out in 1837.
Bull St. between Harris & Charlton Sts.

Monterey Square

Named to commemorate the Mexican War Battle of Monterey, this square has a monument honoring Count Casimir Pulaski, a Polish nobleman mortally wounded in the Siege of Savannah in 1779.
Bull St. between Taylor & Gordon Sts.

Oglethorpe Square

Laid out in 1742 and named for the founder of Georgia, Gen. James Edward Oglethorpe.
Abercorn St. between State & York Sts.

Orleans Square

Laid out in 1815 to honor the heroes of the War of 1812, Battle of New Orleans. A fountain commemorates contributions of early German immigrants.
Barnard St. between Hull & Perry Sts.

Pulaski Square

Laid out in 1837 and named for Count Casimir Pulaski, Revolutionary War hero.
Barnard St. between Harris & Charlton Sts.

Reynolds Square

Named for Capt. John Reynolds, governor of Georgia in 1754. The statue of John Wesley was erected by the Methodists of Georgia in 1969.
Abercorn St. between Bryan & Congress Sts.

Telfair Square

Originally St. James Square, it was renamed for the Telfair family in 1883. The Telfair Museum of Art faces the square.
Barnard St. between State & York Sts.

Troup Square

Laid out in 1851 and named for the former Georgia governor, George Michael Troup.
Habersham St. between Harris & Charlton Sts.

Warren Square

Laid out in 1791 and named for Gen. Joseph Warren, president of the Third Provincial Congress.
Habersham St. between Bryan & Congress Sts.

Washington Square

Laid out in 1790 and named for Gen. George Washington.
Houston St. between Bryan & Congress Sts.

Whitefield Square

Laid out in 1851 and named for George Whitefield, early Savannah minister and founder of the Bethesda orphanage.
Habersham St. between Gordon & Taylor Sts.

Wright Square

Named for Sir James Wright, this square has a monument honoring William Washington Gordon. A large boulder marks the grave of Tomochichi, Yamacraw Indian chief who welcomed Gen. Oglethorpe and the colonists.
Bull St. between State & York Sts.

www.savannahstate.edu

Founded in 1890, Savannah State is the oldest public historically black college in Georgia; the oldest institution of higher learning in the city of Savannah; and a senior, coeducational unit of the University System of Georgia. The diverse, growing student body enjoys nationally recognized academic programs; comfortable, modern, on-campus residences that include two fully furnished apartment complexes; and activities that range from student government to intramural sports, and nine Greek fraternities and sororities.

Savannah State students can choose from 22 undergraduate majors and four graduate programs in three colleges: Business Administration, Liberal Arts and Social Sciences, and Sciences and Technology. The university is home to the only marine sciences program in Georgia, based in a natural setting, where students conduct research in a living laboratory of marshes, wetlands and the ocean. SSU was the first HBCU in the country, and first institution in the state of Georgia to offer a Bachelor of Arts degree in Homeland Security and Emergency Management. Dynamic mass communications, accounting and social work programs are also popular, as are the Naval ROTC, cutting-edge research, exciting study abroad, and networking opportunities that are provided to students each day in the warmth of a nurturing campus environment.

ARMSTRONG ATLANTIC STATE UNIVERSITY

Founded In 1935, Armstrong Atlantic State University is a four-year public university with approximately 7,500 students from across Georgia, the nation and the globe. Armstrong prepares students to become critical thinkers and successful professionals through 100 academic programs in the colleges of Health Professions, Science and Technology, and Liberal Arts and Education.

Students immerse themselves in historic Savannah, at once a window to the past and a forward-thinking city of opportunity. Professors devote themselves to the classroom and equip students with the skills and habits of mind they need to transition confidently to the professional world. Students here enjoy a 19:1 student-teacher ratio, with all classes taught by faculty and not graduate assistants. An honors program and study abroad opportunities give students interesting and challenging experiences outside the classroom as well.

Students may participate in more than 80 student clubs, Greek and professional organizations, leadership programs, and academic honor societies. Concerts, art exhibits, plays and lectures are all part of life at Armstrong. Recreation facilities include indoor basketball and volleyball courts, and a fitness center. There are also lighted tennis courts, a baseball diamond, an indoor swimming pool, sand volleyball courts and several playing fields.

Recently, Armstrong opened a new, 567-bed, suite-style residence hall for freshmen, bringing the total number of students who live on campus to more than 1,400.

Armstrong serves the local community with an expansive offering of cultural and athletic events. Through art, music and theater programs, the university offers more than 200 shows, exhibits and performances each year.

Armstrong has a strong track record in athletics. Its men's and women's tennis teams have brought home eight national championships. Armstrong volleyball and soccer teams have clinched Peach Belt titles; and Armstrong athletes have also competed vigorously in basketball, baseball, softball, cross-country and golf.

Saint Leo University is a Catholic, liberal arts-based university, serving people of all faiths. Chartered in 1889, with its main campus located just north of Tampa, FL, Saint Leo University offers regionally accredited degree completion programs through its Division of Continuing Education and through the Center for Online Learning.

In the 30 years the university has served Savannah, more than 4,000 area residents have earned Saint Leo degrees, and today more than 400 students are enrolled in each eight-week term. Saint Leo's Savannah Center first opened at Hunter Army Airfield and Fort Stewart, where it served mostly military personnel. When demand grew, the two centers combined and moved off the bases. The center is now located at 532 Stephenson Avenue, open to both military and civilian students.

The Savannah Center is licensed by the state, and approved to administer federal financial aid and veterans' benefits. The center offers evening and lunchtime classes, as well as online courses, to accommodate the schedule of working adults. Short terms and flexibility in scheduling classes offer students the opportunity to earn their degrees in a timely and convenient manner.

Degree programs offered at the Savannah Center include Associate of Arts in Business Administration and Liberal Arts; Bachelor of Arts in Business Administration, Criminal Justice, Human Resources Management, Human Services Management, Psychology and Religion; Bachelor of Science in Computer Information Systems and Healthcare Management; and Master of Arts in Theology.

SOUTH UNIVERSITY

South University is a respected academic institution, with more than 100 years of tradition; and is accredited by the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS). As the oldest private college in Savannah, the university offers a wide variety of degree programs, both at its campus and online. South University offers associate, bachelor's, master's and doctorate degree programs for both full-time students and those wishing to attend class while pursuing their career.

Organized into five different colleges and a School of Pharmacy, including the College of Arts & Sciences, College of Business, College of Health Professions, and the College of Nursing, South University offers degrees in accounting, anesthesia sciences (one of only four programs offered in the U.S.), business administration, criminal justice, healthcare management, information technology, legal studies, medical assisting, nursing, paralegal studies, pharmacy, physical therapist assistant, physician assistant studies, and professional counseling.

Through its School of Pharmacy, one of only three in the state of Georgia, students can pursue a doctorate degree in pharmacy through its accelerated three-year format. Compared to competing schools, graduates from the South University School of Pharmacy are able to enter the workforce a full year ahead of their counterparts.

What To Expect

First Class Customer Service

Customer service is our #1 priority – here are just a few of the ways that Rooter-Man provides First Class Customer Service:

Call us today to receive friendly service, our operators are standing by for your call and ready to help!

Trained Service Technicians

Rooter-Man service technicians benefit from Rooter-Man's comprehensive training program – ensuring that when a Rooter-Man technician arrives at your location, they have the knowledge and skills to diagnose the problem that's occurring using the latest service techniques and the proper equipment. With over 40 years of service, there's no problem that Rooter-Man hasn't encountered before!

Locally Owned & Operated

Each Rooter-Man location is locally owned and operated by a small business owner in your area. What this means is that you'll receive the service professionalism of a national company, but with the customer service of a local business that cares about your satisfaction. Respect

Rooter-Man respects the cleanliness of your home or business, and will go to great lengths to preserve it. Our service technicians wear shoe coverings when entering your property, and clean up their work areas upon completion of their work.

Fair Pricing

Solving your plumbing, sewer, and drain problems at fair prices is a large component of what has made Rooter-Man successful for over 40 years. We aim to build long-lasting relationships with our customers and believe in giving straightforward pricing so that our customers understand the work that will be performed and the costs that will be involved. Your business is important to us at Rooter-Man, and our fair pricing will reflect it.

Payment Options

We accept Cash, Checks, Visa, MasterCard, Discover, and more.
